Counselling – Facing the Interviews

Report on Suicide Prevention Campaign

Dr. Veerender, a consultant psychiatrist, counselled the students on Facing the interviews and cracking the jobs through a combination of poster presentations and personal interaction on 14.11.2022 in the Central Hall, KMICS attended by many students of the college. The presentation likely emphasized the importance of raising awareness about facing the interviews through effective communication channels such as posters, which can reach a wide audience and convey key messages succinctly. Dr. Veerender also discussed the significance of promoting mental health literacy, recognizing warning signs, and providing resources for those in distress. Moreover, the personal interaction aspect likely involved engaging attendees in open discussions, sharing personal experiences, and addressing questions or concerns directly. This interactive approach fosters a supportive environment, encourages dialogue, and helps reduce stigma surrounding mental health issues. By combining educational materials with personal engagement, Dr. Veerender's lecture likely provided valuable insights and practical strategies. Around 220 students.
