

Interaction on
REMOTE SENSING USING ML
Date : 29th July 2022 Time :11.30 to 3.00 Pm
Venue: UG Seminar Hall, II Floor,KMICS

The Department of Computer science organized interaction with students for the project work on 'REMOTE SENSING USING ML' by Dr. Srinivas and Pavan Kumar from KMIT for BSC (MPCs & MSCs) II Yr students on 29-7-2022 from 11.30 to 3.00 PM.

The objective of the program is to convey the importance of remote sensing .Remote sensing technologies and machine learning (ML) algorithms play an increasingly important role in accurate detection and monitoring of oil spill slicks, assisting scientists in forecasting their trajectories, developing clean-up plans, taking timely and urgent actions, and applying effective treatments to contain and alleviate adverse effects. The program concluded with the take home the knowledge and importance of remote sensing technology and its uses in the area of computer technology and the career growth in this specific area.The total no of students attended and benefitted are 30 above of the class.
